

BEAUTIFUL VIEWS.

Everybody Should See the Kate Crary Pictures at Grace Church.

Unquestionably the Kate Crary illustrated lectures on scenes and incidents in home and foreign lands, now in progress at Grace M. E. church, are the finest, most beautiful and thoroughly instructive ever produced in Decatur. Those who fail to attend the nightly entertainments are missing an art treat seldom presented in any city. There was a large audience out last night, and everybody was delighted with the pictures about Italy and Rome, and the World's Fair, which were thrown on the big canvas by Dr. Crary, the expert operator, who with his wife have traveled extensively throughout the country. Mrs. Crary gives the lectures in charming style.

To night the views will be on Germany and the Rhine, besides additional views on the World's Fair, with extra pictures thrown on the canvas Monday night, to be repeated by request. Don't fail to see the remainder of the exhibit. Lecture begins each evening at 8 o'clock.

Condolence.

At a regular meeting of Decatur Lodge, No. 65, I. O. O. F., the following was unanimously adopted:

"On Sunday, November 11th, 1894, the wife of our beloved brother, George W. Cole, passed away in death, the summons coming quickly and without warning. She was surrounded by loved ones who mourn the loss of wife and mother. Again we are reminded that 'in the midst of life we are in death.'"

Decatur Lodge No. 65 sympathizes with our brother in this, his sad affliction. We realize the rapidness of the home without the mother. Yet the Father looks down in mercy and his grace is sufficient. We would commend our brother to the merciful Father, feeling assured that he will have compassion on the home thus bereft.

This memorial will be spread on the records of our lodge duly published and copies furnished the family. Signed: I. N. MARTIN, Jr., G. W. MCHENRY, J. H. GREGORY, Committee.

THE OLD PATHFINDER

Finds a Resting-Place on the Banks of the Hudson.

LAI D TO REST WITH SIMPLE OBSEQUIES

Attended by a Faithful Few, Who Loved the Noble Patriot Living, and Honor His Memory Now that He Has Gone to His Reward.

SPARKILL, N. Y., Nov. 22.—On the crest of a high hill commanding a view of the Hudson river and the country to the west of it for miles and miles, the remains of Gen John C. Fremont were yesterday placed at rest. Only a small band of the followers of the "Pathfinder" were present. They came up from New York in a special car attached to the 1:30 p. m. train from Jersey City. Prominent among them were Lieut. John C. Fremont, U. S. N., son of the dead general; Mrs. John C. Fremont, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Townsend, relatives by marriage; Mrs. John W. MacGruder, widow of Gen. MacGruder; Maj. Gen. Miles, U. S. A.; Rear Admiral Meade, U. S. N. There were a dozen or more "49ers, members of the organization known as the Associated Pioneers of the territorial days of California, and with the Rockland county people who attended the burial, the party numbered 150.

The day was perfect and the simple ceremony was impressive. On a spot from which the noble Hudson can be seen as it broadens to form Tappan Zee, and followed until it is lost beyond the Croton hills, and with a view of the setting sun, as it sinks behind the New Jersey hills, the little band of devoted followers stood with bared heads while earth was consigned to earth and ashes to ashes.

The remains of the man whose name was once a household word had been in the receiving vault here since March, 1891, when they were transferred from Trinity cemetery, New York, where they had been placed after the funeral on July 15, 1890.

At 2 o'clock the casket, enclosed in a heavy wooden box, was placed in a hearse and followed by carriages containing the relatives and friends, the little cortege passed up the winding road to the highest ground. The grave had been dug within a hundred feet of the tall shaft which marks the resting place of Lieut. Corrigan, who brought the obelisk to this country.

The casket, adorned with American flags, was removed from the hearse and lowered into the grave. Rev. Ward Dennis, of Sparkill, read the simple interment service of the Protestant Episcopal church. Francis D. Clark, secretary of the Associated Pioneers, spoke a few words in behalf of the veterans who had come to pay their final tribute to the memory of their comrade. He then introduced Rear Admiral Meade, who said in substance:

"FRIENDS AND PIONEERS.—In the face of death there is not much that can be said. We are here to honor the memory of the man did as much as any man in his generation to give us the empire of the western world. I remember well, as a boy, how my heart thrilled as I heard of the man whom we now lay at rest on the banks of the Hudson, beside which Washington Irving said it was an honor to be born. Of Fremont it can be said every pulse of his heart beat for his country. If he had had his wish, he would have died fighting for the colors he loved so well."

Rev. E. Crowell, of Nyack, who knew Fremont in California, also spoke. Then Rev. Mr. Dennis concluded the service; flowers were thrown upon the casket, and the grave was filled with earth.

FITZSIMMONS EXONERATED

By the Verdict of the Coroner's Jury in the Riordan Killing.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 23.—The inquest touching the death of Cornelius Riordan, who was killed in a sparring bout with Robert Fitzsimmons in the H. R. Jacobs opera house last Friday night, was held last night before Coroner Roberts and a jury. The jury brought in the following verdict after a long wrangle:

"We find that Cornelius Riordan came to his death on the evening of Friday, November 16, from an accidental blow delivered by Robert Fitzsimmons while engaged in a sparring exhibition on the stage of the H. R. Jacobs Opera house. We exonerate Robert Fitzsimmons from all blame."

Strong testimony against Fitzsimmons was given by Dr. D. M. Tottman, who attended Riordan. He testified that the blows delivered by Fitzsimmons alone caused death.

Most people can not afford to experiment. They want immediate relief. That's why they use One Minute Cough Cure. C. H. Dawson.

A DETERMINED FRONT.

The Captain of a Stranded Chinese War Ship Takes Opium.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—A dispatch from Che-Poo to the Central News says that all the vessels of the Chinese fleet are now at Taitien Wan and troops are marching southward to attack Port Arthur. The Chinese there are making preparations to present a determined front against the enemy.

The captain of the Chinese war ship Chen Yuen Lin Tai San, committed suicide by taking a quantity of opium because of the stranding of his ship. The vessel struck a rock and is probably a total wreck. The Chinese authorities at Shanghai, however, have arranged to send ships and men to her assistance, believing that the Chen Yuen can be floated and repaired.

A KANAKA UPRISING.

Every White Person in New Ireland Believed to Have Been Killed.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Nov. 23.—A Kanaka uprising is reported to be in progress on the islands in the vicinity of New Guinea. Scores of Europeans are said to have been murdered and most of the trading posts are said to have been burned. The steamship Three Cheers brings the news that her captain found fresh traces of cannibal feasts on Admiralty island and at New Ireland. He believed that every white person in New Ireland was killed.

Arrested on a Charge of Murder.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Nov. 23.—Capt. S. J. Scott, a prominent business man of Tecumseh, was arrested Wednesday night, and Will Gill, sheriff of Pottawatomie county, yesterday, on the charge of murder. Three years ago Steve Penasaw was shot and killed by three deputy marshals, they claiming that in the dark they mistook him for an outlaw, whom they were hunting. George Wells, one of the deputies, was last week convicted of murder for the shooting, and it is charged that Scott and Gill hired him to kill Penasaw, who was an important witness against them in a land case.

Found Dead in His Room.

JOHNSONBURG, Pa., Nov. 23.—Harry Peoples, aged about 25 years, a bank clerk, was found dead in his room over the Johnsonburg national bank, yesterday morning, at 8 o'clock. Two bullet holes in his head and a 32-calibre revolver by his side told the story. The coroner's inquest brought out no evidence as to the cause of the shooting. He had no bad habits so far as known, and the affair is a great mystery.

Statehood for Oklahoma.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Nov. 23.—The chairman of the democratic territorial executive committee has issued a call for a statehood convention to be held Wednesday, November 28, at El Reno. The recent deprivations of outlaws and the favorable report of the Daves commission are considered formidable arguments in favor of statehood.

To Protect the Gold in the Treasury.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—It was stated in Wall street yesterday afternoon that arrangements had been definitely made in this city to subscribe for $30,000,000 of the new bonds. It was also said that there was no doubt that the whole issue will be taken without any further large withdrawals of gold from the subtreasury.

Assumed Command of His New Department.

Address: THE EVENING REPUBLICAN, 126 South Water street, Decatur, Illinois.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1894.

Before the income tax provision of the Wilson tariff act can be enforced an appropriation of $500,000 will have to be made by congress to defray the expenses of enforcing the law. This appropriation it is said Senator Hill will oppose and probably defeat.

The people are not in a humor now to see any compromise tariff bill, and if the Republican party listens to the vapors of a few people who never seem to know where they are "at" on the tariff, it will make the greatest mistake in its history. But the Republican party will make no such blunder.

The Illinois Democratic leaders were never happier than after Altgeld signed their infamous gerrymander bill, which they said meant "Cullom next." They were never more sad than when the smoke of battle cleared away after the first round with the people and they beheld the wreck of Democratic expectations.

BEAR this in mind: Those people who disobeyed the instructions of the Illinois state Republican convention in 1892, when that convention instructed its delegates at large to the national convention to vote for the renomination of Harrison and entered into a conspiracy to stampede the convention and nominate McKinley against his protest, only publish their political dishonesty when they quibble about the McKinley act now in the hope of weakening McKinley among the people. The same is true as to those who encouraged the bolt.

Some cannot understand why a tariff-for-revenue-only administration always has to borrow money to meet deficiencies in revenue. This is not strange. The Democratic idea is simply to "buy things cheap," regardless of the prosperity of the country. When the prosperity of the country is destroyed by forcing our people into idleness in the hunt for cheap goods the chances to collect revenue must be diminished. When our people cannot buy, importations must be limited, as well as the goods from which the government collects internal revenue, and the result is she government must borrow money.

The Hospital Not Exempted.

Judge Tipton rendered an important decision yesterday, says the Bloomington Pantagraph, in the case of Henry Kummer vs. the city of Bloomington, which was in effect that St. Joseph's hospital must pay the assessment for the opening of West Clay street. Last summer when the city decided to open Clay street westward from Allin street the residents and property owners along the street were taxed to pay for the improvements, and among these St. Joseph's hospital was assessed $262. On the ground of its being a charitable institution the trustees of the hospital asked the city council to abate the assessment against it. Mr. Henry Kummer, one of the residents of the street, who had been taxed for the opening of the street entered an objection and asked the court for an injunction to restrain the council from rebating the hospital assessment. Judge Tipton yesterday made the injunction permanent and consequently the hospital must pay its assessment of $262, unless the trustees take the case up and a higher court should see fit to reverse the judge's opinion. The grounds of the decision were that the city council had no right to rebate taxes or make gifts of any kind. Inasmuch as the county court had confirmed the assessment against the property owners of West Clay street, and the hospital was therein included, the council had no right nor power to go behind the action of the court, and consequently the injunction was made permanent.

A Little Tedious.

The Chicago Tribune's effort to make black appears white is relation to the attitude of the people toward the McKinley tariff act is becoming a little tedious and the class is inclined to yawn. It's latest exercise on that question is to quote the tariff plank of the Illinois Republican platform—which does not mention the McKinley tariff act—to show that the Republicans of Illinois are opposed to the tariff as interpreted by that act. It might, with the same force, quote the book of Esther, in which the word God does not appear, to show there was no God in Chaldaea in the day that young Hebrew flourished.

The Illinois platform declares:

We earnestly maintain the right and justice of the American doctrine of protection to American industries. In raising the necessary revenue to maintain the government we are in favor of such duties on competing exports as will best tend to the development of the resources of our own country, of the labor of our people performed at wages which put the comforts of life within easy reach and secure good prices for the products alike of our farms, our mines and our workshops, and we believe that articles that cannot be successfully produced in this country, except luxuries, should be placed upon the free list. We further believe that without labor there is no such thing as raw material of any practical or marketable value, and no tangible thing of value that it does not require labor to produce or utilize, and hence the importation of so-called raw material free of duty is an interference with the system of protection to American labor and should only be permitted when the raw material is unobtainable in our own country.

We denounce an unwise and un-American tariff bill, modified in the Senate by the injection of weak and inconsistent attempts to protect special interests, as now pending in Congress, and we charge the Democratic party with the sole responsibility for the effort to destroy our tariff system, which has been proven the greatest boon to the great mass of American citizens.

That platform is all right, and if the Tribune will support a tariff bill which embodies the principles it contains, the "insect and infinitesimal" rural editors and the Tribune may yet be found marching to the same music. The McKinley act covers that ground precisely; but the Tribune unfortunately aligned itself with the enemies of the American principle of protection against the bill, and did as much as any of them to turn the heads of the workmen against protection and defeat the Republican party in 1890 and 1892. The platform declares in favor of "raising the necessary revenue to maintain the government by such duties on competing exports as will best tend to the development of the resources of our own country." That's what the McKinley bill did. The wool tariff, the tin plate tariff and the sugar bounty were all in harmony with those declarations, but every one of them was fought vigorously and unfairly by the Tribune. Our industries never enjoyed so much development and labor was never so well employed as during the period when the McKinley act was in force.

That platform emphatically declares that anything requiring labor to produce cannot fairly, to the producer, be characterized or treated as raw material. The McKinley bill adhered strictly to this policy, but the Tribune fought that feature of the bill, characterizing it as stupidity.

That platform charges the Democratic party with attempting by the Wilson bill "to destroy our tariff system, which has been proven the greatest boon to the great mass of American citizens." The Wilson bill, in the shape it was when the Republican convention was in session, was in harmony with Cleveland's free trade message of December, 1887, which was endorsed by the Tribune, while the McKinley bill was among the great tariff measures which the state convention calls "a boon to the great mass of American citizens."

The Tribune also persists in claiming that the schedules of the McKinley act caused the defeat of the party in 1890 and 1892. No sound, well informed Republican, entertains such a notion, and that the Tribune is wrong and the masses of Republicans are correct, is attested by the fact that millions of workmen, many of whom having been deceived by those who railed against the McKinley bill, voted for "tariff reform" in 1890 and 1892 and defeated the Republicans, petitioned congress, while the Wilson bill was under consideration, protesting in the most vigorous terms against the passage of that bill, and in favor of allowing the McKinley act to stand, and the same people have since given the Republican party the greatest victory it ever had.

Nobody contends, nobody expects, anybody has more sense than to assume, that a new congress will pass a tariff bill exactly like the McKinley act any more than a new Illinois legislature would enact the same road law with the present one repealed. But one thing is certain. The next tariff bill will be made in the same general mould embodying the highest principles of protection and will not be formulated for the purpose of vindicating the Tribune in its attacks on the McKinley bill which were all made from a "tariff reform" standpoint. When the people want "tariff reform" they will vote for the Springers and Wilson instead of the Reeds and McKinleys.

THE ever popular comedians, Donnelly night before a large audience in their new farcical comedy, "The Rainmakers."

The piece was written to make people laugh, and it is a success. Nonsense, songs, dances, acrobatic feats, some good jokes, pretty forms, faces and costumes permeated the play, and Donnelly
and Girard whoop 'em up in every act.

THE demand for Ayer's Hair Vigor in such widely separated regions as South America, Spain, Australia and India has kept pace with the home consumption,
which goes to show that these people
know a good thing when they try it.

THIS has not been an "off year" in politics. In Illinois the total vote was only 22,000 less than the total vote of the state in the last Presidential election, while in 1890 the total vote was 71,500 less than in the Presidential election of 1888. The loss this year all came from the Democratic party, which is unprecedented. The Republicans polled 52,000 more votes this year than they did in 1892. This direct gain of 52,000 represents the actual increase added to the party strength in Illinois. The net Republican gain in figures by the change of pluralities is 164,101.

Tin Can Brigade.

The tin can brigade is in Decatur. It came peaceably and silently, came up in a night, hatched in the brain of some freckle-faced boy who was once his mother's darling. It makes war on nobody in particular, but it knocks the stuffing out of that somewhat mythical being, "the peace of society." The present seat of war is on the quadrilateral having its southeastern angle at the Church street school building. The principal movement is along the Eldorado street plane and overlapping the northeastern return angle, and perpendicular to Eldorado street. The brigade operates from the west, and is armed with shiny sticks with which they drive at a whizzing rate old and battered tin cans along the pavement. The operation is deafening and apparently progressive. The appearance of the brigade in action is that of dismounted Bash-Bazouks. The only distinctive feature of the troop that approaches uniformly is its legs. They are all uniform, being long and spindly. At a distance these make the troop take on the appearance of a brigade of clothes pins looking for a clothes line. They have no officers.
Everyone seems to have all he can do to keep up his part of the racket and prevent having his legs swept off by a shiny stick, or his brain addled by contact with the shower of roaring, hurtling tin cans on the wing. The organization seems invincible and "God save the queen" and God save anybody else that comes within the range of the cyclone they keep in motion. It fights its battles when the most people are on the streets. It is invincible. It "fears no noise and never cries to go home," especially when there are chores to do.
The roll never grows less. There are no desertions. New recruits come in daily. In every way it is a remarkable brigade. While in action yesterday a runaway team came dashing and tearing down Eldorado street threatening their rear. Not a single screaming Bazouk paid any attention to the fool horses and when they got within fifty feet of the brigade their hearts failed
them and they shied off on a boulevard
and stranded themselves on a shade tree.
The battle went on until the angle of the quadrilateral was reached, and then the brigade disbanded. Its a sight to see the battle ground. But don't try to go over the field on a bicycle. Its dangerous.

Talk and Views of Mexico.

Last evening there was a Mexican sociable given at the Congregational church for the benefit of the Endeavor society. The attendance was large and the chief interest of the evening was the appearance of Charles Barnard, who was in Mexico nine months in the interest of the Y. M. C. A.,
dressed in a Mexican buckskin suit,
worn by the middle classes, displayed about seventy-five of the curios he had collected while there, and gave a very interesting talk, describing the country, people and productions as they were seen by him. Among the curios exhibited were an Aztec vase, ploughed from the ground, fine specimens of silverware, water bottles, carved coconut shells, opals, cut and uncut, Mexican rain coat made of palms, coffee wood cane, piece of sulphur from Popocatepetl, piece of onyx and Spanish pieces found in 1875. He also described the City of Mexico and street scenes and exhibited about 70 or 80 photographs he took while there. Refreshments were served during the evening by the social committee. Messrs. Harold Young and Richard Glover rendered music during the evening.

Delightful Social.

served.

The Fast Mail Coming.

The great scenic production, Lincoln
J. Carter's "Fast Mail" company, which appears at the Grand Thanksgiving evening, Thursday, Nov. 29, has played all over the United States for the past three years. It is unnecessary to dwell upon its merits—suffice it to say that for this season it has new scenery and mechanical effects that surpass all previous efforts. The present season Mr. Carter has six companies—four in this country
and two in England.

Fern Leaf Temple.

Fern Leaf Temple No. 18, Rathbone
Sisters, gave a delightful entertainment
last evening at their hall in Library

observed:

Defeated.

The vote in this state at the recent election in favor of the constitutional

Mail Delivery for the Country.

Chicago Record: The question of rural free mail delivery which was brought up again in the sessions of the National Grange at Springfield, Ill., is one which every farmer and resident of rural territory should regard with a view to the practical steps necessary to attain the results desired. As the secretary of the Springfield congress said in his address, there is no reason to doubt that an efficient and satisfactory rural delivery service could be put in operation at an early day without inflicting a heavier burden of expense upon the postoffice department than the results
would warrant.

What those results be, no farmer living in the isolation of a home too farm
the postoffice for daily communication, needs to be told. Of the various agencies which before long will tend to turn back the stream of people flowing from the country to the cities, none will be more influential than the establishment of rural free mail delivery. Once let the farmers have this necessity, and good roads and country life will be far less the thing of loneliness and isolation
that it is now.

It is true that farmers should pay heed
to the suggestions made in the grange congress and take steps for an organized effort for free mail delivery. They are entitled to it and they can have it if they will but back up their request by organization and present it to the federal government in some practical way.
The increased revenues resulting from such delivery, due to the vast increase in the use of the mails, would very nearly offset the increased cost. The investigations of Mr. Wanamaker while postmaster-general go far toward establishing this.

Cullom For Senator.

The Champaign Gazette puts the senatorial situation before its readers fairly and logically, and its views will be adopted by the people's representatives in the house and senate when they select a United States Senator. It says:
There is much to be said in fairness about the United States Senatorship in Illinois. The Republicans had full knowledge, from the very first, that Shelby M. Cullom and W. E. Mason were candidates. They went into the field as such, took off their coats and energetically assisted to put through a rugged campaign in the face of a situation which was anything but promising for the Republicans, considering the advantages the opposition had in the fact of the senatorial gerrymander.
That difficulty has been triumphantly overcome, and now it is not in the reason of things that the Republicans shall turn around and confer the senatorship,
itself a major part of what was fought for, upon some candidate who did not reveal himself when the struggle was a struggle. The common dictates of justice and fairness are against that and so it is useless to discuss it. As between Cullom and Mason, giving just credit to both as good men and good Republicans,
the logic of the situation, without any disparagement of the lucky Chicagoan,
is undeniably in Cullom's favor.
Senator Cullom has been long before the public. He has never posed as a showy or brilliant man;
but he has been a valuable public servant. He has brought good abilities, extraordinary devotion and diligence
and a most servicable stock of hard common sense to the discharge of his public duties, and on this score there is no reason why he should be set aside.
If good party service done and accomplished is to determine the issue, no man in the state deserves better of his party on that account. There is no interest of the state that can be better served by any man who has yet been discussed. If Chicago claims the senator as her due, the answer is that Chicago now has the governor and will soon have the treasurer, and is not suffering for lack of a share of the good things that are going politically in the state. Moreover, in two years from now a successor to Palmer will have to be chosen. Two years is a short time, and if Chicago will turn in and help carry the legislature in 1896, the Palmer seat
will be practically conceded to that city.
Such is the manifest situation of the senatorship now, and it would seem to be good sense and party wisdom to accept it.

Big New York.

The consolidation of the greater New York is practically assured. The increase in area and population which New York will acquire will be seen by the following table:

Despite the inclemency of the weather
last night there was a large audience at Grace M. E. church to enjoy the views of Germany and the Rhine, given by Dr. and Mrs. Crary. To-night the subject will be "From Ocean to Ocean," opening with our native, landlocking with the wonders of the Yosemite. More pictures of the World's Fair will be given to-night.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1894.

GEORGIA A CENTURY AGO.

In 1800 the population of Georgia was 102,098 of which 59,699 were slaves. In 1787 Savannah had 227 dwellings and 830 inhabitants, and in 1794 the population had increased to 2,500.

A century ago Louisville was the capital of Georgia. Augusta at that time had a population of 1,198 whites, 1,017 blacks and 250 dwellings.

The tea plant was introduced into Georgia from India by Samuel Bowen in 1770, and was soon grown without cultivation in the yards of Savannah.

The boundaries of Georgia in 1800 were Atlantic ocean on the east, Florida on the south, Mississippi territory on the west and South Carolina on the north.

A hundred years ago the constitution of Georgia required each county to establish a academy, and the counties respectively set apart public property valued at $1,000 for that purpose.

At the beginning of the present century Georgia's leading crops were rice, indigo, tobacco and cotton. In 1796 the state produced 1,700,000 pounds of cotton. Tobacco was so remunerative and easy to be produced that it was then expected to become the leading staple.

A hundred years ago Georgia's senators and representatives were elected once a year. A senator had to possess 250 acres of land and other property worth $250. A representative had to own 200 acres of land and other property valued at $150. The governor had to own 500 acres of land and other property to the amount of $1,000.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

Beef and pork, salt fish, potatoes and hominy were the staple diet all the year round.

The mail of the whole country did not equal that of a single second-rate office now.

The only shoes were stout contrivances of strong hide, with wooden pegs or hob-nails.

There were no pianos; the ladies of musical talent played on the spinet or harpsichord.

Burrows were scarce and expensive, and the trousers were fastened with pegs or laces.

The only recognized method of imparting information was by the liberal use of the "rod."

All the population of a village assembled at the inn on "post day" to hear the news.

There were no thrashing machines. Wheat was thrashed out on the barn floor with flails.

The women's dresses were puffed with hoops and stood out two or three feet on each side.

A fever patient was forbidden to drink water, and smallpox was treated in a dark room.

ECHOES OF THE RAIL.

GEORGE GOULD is making a tour of his railroad properties in the south-west.

THE Union Pacific is well pleased with the business outlook all along its lines.

THERE is small prospect of an agreement between the western roads and the Canadian Pacific in the matter of immigrant rates.

A PROPOSAL to build a belt line of railroad around Grand Island in Niagara river, is being pushed by Buffalo and Niagara Falls capitalists.

RAILROADS carry a man from New York to San Francisco for $60, a hog weighing the same as a man for $6; advantage in favor of being a hog, $74.

THERE has been a big shaking up of condottieri on the Grand Trunk, as the management believed they were too well acquainted with the passengers.

THE Pennsylvania road has fixed a uniform rate of $3 per month on all employees' tickets for 35 miles out of Pittsburgh, which is considerably below any former rate.

BOAT people have no time, and sensible people have no inclination to use a slow remedy. One Minute Cough Cure acts promptly and gives permanent results. C. H. Dawson.

HAROLD EVANS, of Vincennes, aged 12, eloped with a youth named Brown, aged 17.

You make no mistake when you take Dr. Williams' Little Early Risers for biliousness, dyspepsia or headache, because these little pills cure them. C. H. Dawson.

FARMERS in the vicinity of Crawfordville complain of dry weather, low streams and wells.

PERSONAL MENTION.

E. Hughes, is very sick at his home, 150 West Cerro Gordo.

Dr. Wm. Catto is in Pierson to-day on professional business.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Clark left to-day for Mendota to visit relatives.

Mrs. R. N. Pifer has gone to Paris, Mo., to visit Mrs. T. W. Pinkerton.

Miss Annie Cole, of Bement, arrived in the city to-day to visit Miss Marie Keller.

Mrs. T. W. Roberts, and daughter, of Tuscola, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elwood.

LIFE OF A SPY.

Military Espionage and Military Methods of Gaining Information.

The utility of the actual spy in time of war nowadays is limited, especially in actual warfare, by the fact that they are seldom able to convey their news fast enough, and during the term of war it is only the very latest news that is of any value. When there is a temporary lull in the hostilities, they can be utilized in the camp of the enemy, and they are specially adaptable during the period of preparation for war, while the armies are occupied with the equipment and marching orders. Under such circumstances, important personages, who are seldom seen in intercourse with the others, mix freely among the ordinary herd, and thus an opportunity is afforded to the spy to study both country and people. If the "theater of war" is just on the boundaries, there is never any lack of self-sacrificing men who are willing to risk their lives and reputations for the sake of their country, and here again espionage loses a great deal of its abhorrent characteristics. Still the enemy is bound, in self-defense, to punish even these patriotic efforts with extreme severity, and the command issued by the Germans on August 19, 1870, was that all spies and traitors should be punished by death. Although the decree was greatly criticized at the time, it was in point of fact simply a necessary precaution. Other armies have gone still further; for instance, in the American war of independence, in 1780, the British major and general, adjutant, Andre, was arrested on a tour of espionage in the enemy's line, and hanged, although he begged for the privilege of being shot "like a soldier."

Such espionage as this, however, can not be looked on as dishonorable, on the contrary. In this case the end certainly justifies the means. The spy who sacrifices reputation, honor and life for his country, may be looked on as a true hero.—Count Erich Von Walden, in Home and Country.

A GLORIOUS VICTORY.
Heroic Defense of a Town Against Immense Odds.

One of the most heroic defenses of a town against an overwhelming force happened eighty years ago, when a British squadron under Sir Thomas Hardy bombarded Stonington. The place was defended by two old eight-pounders and a six-pounder mounted in a crude earthwork, and there was not even a flagstaff on which to display the national colors. Sir Thomas Hardy appeared before the town on August 9, 1814, and gave the women and children one hour to get to a place of safety. Forward evening the British vessels opened a heavy fire, which was responded to by the three guns in the possession of the Americans. When the bombardment was at its height, about eight o'clock that evening, five barges and a launch filled with soldiers and marines put out from the squadron to land. The Americans reserved their fire until the British boats were within short range, when they opened a fire of grape-shot from the two eighteen-pounders, which compelled the British to retreat. The enemy then sailed around to the eastern side of the peninsula, which they supposed to be defenseless, and attempted to land there. By great efforts the Americans managed to drag their six-pounder across the point of land, and, carefully masking it, again awaited their British assailants. The barges again made toward the shore, but on getting within short range were subjected to a disastrous fire from the six-pounder and musketry, which drove them back to their British ships in confusion. On August 10 the British vessels were reinforced, and standing close in shore concentrated their fire on two eighteen-pounders. The Americans stood by their guns unflinchingly, however, and injured one of the British frigates so much that she was compelled to haul off. The barges again attempted to land, but they were repulsed as before by a steady fire of grape-shot and musketry. One of the barges was torn to pieces by the fire of the six-pounder. On the following day the vessels maintained a desultory fire, but did not again venture within close range. On August 12 they sailed away, reporting a loss of twenty-one killed and more than fifty wounded, while of the Americans only one man was killed and five wounded. The British had thrown over sixty tons of shot into the town, occasioning serious damage. Col. Randall, who commanded the American forces, won well-merited applause for his spirited defense.

HOWE'S STATEMENT.

The St. Louis Lawyer Arrives in Philadelphia.

AND IS POUNCED UPON BY REPORTERS,

To Whom He Discloses His Connection with the Insurance Swindle—Plausible Marshal McDonald—Howe Out on a Bail Bond.

Lawyer Howe Makes a Statement.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Lawyer J. P. Howe, of St. Louis, indicted for complicity in the conspiracy against the Fidelity Mutual Life association, arrived here yesterday and surrendered to the police.

Before surrendering himself Howe acceded to the request of a dozen newspaper men and made a statement, as follows:

"GENTLEMEN—I learn more about this case every day. At this time there is very little to say. I can tell you that Mrs. Pitzel came to me as an attorney and asked me to prosecute her insurance claim. The first thing I did, I believe, was to notify the St. Louis agent of the insurance company, relying upon him to communicate with the main office in Philadelphia. I next wrote to the superintendent of police, Capt. Linden, to the company and to the coroner. The coroner, in replying, said the body was here and must be identified, 'for,' he said, 'we know it is a body of B. F. Perry, and unless there is some other identification it will be buried as the body of Perry.'"

"I asked the widow upon the receipt of this letter about the conflict in the name. She told me that Pitzel, her husband, was living in Philadelphia under the name of Perry, and showed me a number of letters from him that convinced me that the widow was her husband. I told Mrs. Pitzel that she must go to Philadelphia with me.

"I then had another letter from the coroner saying he must have positive marks of identification in order to demonstrate that the corpse was Pitzel. I showed this letter to Mrs. Pitzel, and told her she must assist me in getting those positive marks. She gave them to me and I transmitted the description to the coroner. I again received word from the coroner or some one else that still the identification was insufficient. I told Mrs. Pitzel, 'That means that you must go on to Philadelphia.' She replied that the baby was not well, and that she could not leave it. I told her that I would take care of the child. Then she said she had no money. I was poor, and could not pay her way. I told her she must raise the money herself."

"At this point Lawyer McDonald, of St. Louis, who was present, and will be Howe's counsel, exclaimed: 'Oh, I don't see the use of going into all these details.'"

"True," rejoined Howe, and he was thoughtful for a minute. Resuming he said: "Anyway, Mrs. Pitzel raised the money; she got it from her groceryman. When I went for her I found her sick in bed. 'Someone must go,' I told her. She said the little girl (Alice) could go. It did not like the idea, but it was the best we could do, for Mrs. Pitzel was too ill to move. I brought the child on with me. She identified the body to the satisfaction of the company and I got the $10,000. Returning to St. Louis, I gave it to Mrs. Pitzel and took her receipt for it. I gave her a receipt for my fee and that is all I have seen of her or of the case."

With this Howe arose, apparently done with his statement, but a volley of questions flew about his ears instantly.

"Was your fee $2,500?" he was asked.

"Mrs. Pitzel paid me a fee of $2,500," he replied.

When asked as to his connection with Holmes and what he knew of him he said that at present he did not care to talk about that part of the case. Neither did he care to discuss the connection of the train robber, Hedgepeth, with the case. Howe then went to the office of Superintendent of Police Linden to surrender himself.

McDonald's Explanation Satisfactory.

Lawyer McDonald had an interview with Police Superintendent Linden. Mr. McDonald went into an explanation of the manner in which he gave Howe the letter of introduction to Capt. Linden, which went far to enable him to collect the $10,000 insurance money for Mrs. Pitzel.

The superintendent of police, after the interview, declared that he saw no reason to doubt anything McDonald said. He said: "I am a student of criminal law, and I know that a man who is as reputable, honest and trustworthy as I would not believe he would do a dishonest act, and I can not think he would knowingly have written such a letter as would have brought about the success of any crooked scheme. His explanation of the letter he wrote was entirely satisfactory to me."

Howe Seemingly Bait—An Interview with President Fouse.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Through the aid of his friend McDonald, Howe succeeded in getting bail yesterday afternoon. William McGonigal, a saloonkeeper and an old friend of McDonald's, became Howe's surety. Howe and President Fouse of the Fidelity company had an interview yesterday afternoon, and Howe contended that Fouse was prejudiced against him. Mr. Fouse denied this, and said that he could not forget the deception that Howe had practiced upon him when he pretended to have met Holmes for the first time in his office, and that until he proved his innocence, he would be compelled to think him guilty.

Death of Gen. O'Brien.

Tiffin, O., Nov. 23.—Gen. O'Brien died at 8 o'clock last evening.

FROM SAMOA.

A Peace Better Described as Armed Neutrality Still Reigns in the Islands.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—(Correspondence of the United Press per steamer Mariposa.)

APIA, Nov. 1.—Peace still reigns in Samoa, although it is a peace which would be better described as armed neutrality. No native taxes are forthcoming, and the government's current expenses are met by the proportion of customs revenue which the great powers have decided the government is entitled to. Naturally the white residents, who solely contribute toward this branch of revenue, are disgruntled, and the wonder is that they continue to be law-abiding, when no steps are taken to enforce native taxation.

The most important event of the month has been the visit of the land commissioners to the district of Palerail, where they were permitted to establish themselves without molestation and during their stay had no cause of complaint against the rebels residing there. On their return to Apia they expressed themselves as delighted with the work accomplished. The commissioners are now preparing for a similar trip to Lufilufi, the capital town of the rebels in Atua, and their work there being accomplished, they will have completed their official inquiry into the land claims in Samoa. The British war ship Curacao and the German man-of-war Buzard are still in Apia harbor. The former has been expecting her relief for more than three months, but no definite information of it has been received up to the present time.

GOT ON TO HIS PLOT.

Clad H. Wetmore Banished from Hawaii for Treason.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The steamer Mariposa which arrived from Honolulu yesterday brought news of an attempt to overthrow the government by Clad H. Wetmore, a newspaper man who formerly represented the New York World and a Chicago paper there after the deposition of Queen Lilioukani. Wetmore had several hundred royalists connected with him in the plot, which was to have been sprung on the day after the last steamer from Honolulu, the Australia, had sailed. On the morning of the steamer's departure Wetmore was summoned to Attorney-General Smith's office and told that the government was in possession of full details of his scheme and he was given the alternative of departing on the Australia or being thrown into prison for treason. He took the former course.

GEN. WILLIAM BOOTH,

Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army, in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Gen. William Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, arrived in Chicago early yesterday morning. Elaborate plans have been made for Gen. Booth's stay in the city. The programme of entertainment is a long one. Yesterday forenoon Gen. Booth met a gathering of Newspaper men at the Press club, and in the afternoon he was presented to an assemblage of local ministers at Willard hall.

Last evening the troops of the Salvation Army paraded through the business portion of the city in honor of his arrival, after which the general delivered his address, "In Darkest England, and The Way Out," at the Auditorium. A delegation of fifty prominent citizens were on the platform.

THE GOVERNMENT LOAN

To Be Taken by a Syndicate of New York Bankers and Capitalists.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—It was reported yesterday that after a protracted conference a syndicate was made up to take one-half of the $50,000,000 government loan. President Stewart of the United States Trust Co. and his friends to subscribe for the other half. The new syndicate is said to comprise the Chemical, Park and Importers' and Traders', the Chase, the Fourth national and the Bank of Commerce. These banks are among the largest holders of gold, and if they take the loan the treasury will be a large gainer of the yellow metal.

The agents in this city of the Bank of Montreal will receive $500,000 from Canada this week and $400,000 next week. It is understood that this gold is to pay for subscriptions to the government loan.

FOR GRAVE ROBBERY.

Professor, Students and Janitors of Cotner University Charged With the Crime.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 23.—The six students, professor and janitors of Cotner university, arrested Wednesday night on the charge of grave robbery had their preliminary examination yesterday morning and each secured a continuance until November 30. The name of the venerable Dr. R. Dungan, chancellor of the university, has been included in the list of those suspected. The men under arrest, it is claimed, will attempt to prove that the body was procured in a regular way by purchase and that the police have no actual proof that the professor, students or janitors had any hand in taking it from the grave. The punishment for grave robbery in Nebraska is a fine of from $100 to $500. The affair has caused a great sensation at the college suburb.

THE COOK GANG.

A Portion of Their Number Under Arrest at Wichita Falls.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 23.—A telegram received last night from Wichita Falls says that the supposed bandits under arrest there have been positively identified by the Indian territory officers as a portion of the Cook gang.

Hill to Miami.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Senator Hill, who is at the Normandie hotel, will leave for the south this afternoon. The senator has nothing to say on the recent democratic slump, and refuses to discuss the political situation.

IN A VERY BAD LIGHT.

The Verdict of the Coroner in the Coit Case

THE RESULT OF A PREJUDICED MIND.

The Victim of the Prisoner Dolby and One of the Men Killed by the Troops Relatives of the Coroner—Coit's Strong Defense.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23.—A large number of Washington Courthouse citizens were on hand when the Coit court of inquiry opened yesterday.

C. E. Page, a Washington Courthouse dentist, heard the officers order the streets to be cleared and warn the people that they would fire if an attempt was made to break down the doors. It was his opinion that the crowd was determined to hang Dolby, and would have done so had the militia not been present.

Deputy Sheriff Caldwell described the rush upon the prisoner as he was taking him from the jail to the courthouse in the afternoon. He himself was knocked down, and when he got up a soldier, mistaking him for one of the rioters, ran a bayonet against his breast with such force as to penetrate the flesh. Only the work of the soldiers and the presence of mind of his assistant saved the prisoner from the mob then.

Lieut. Goldney saw pistols drawn in the crowd and head members of it cry out not to be afraid of the soldiers as they dare not fire except on a special order from the governor.

At the night session the Col. Coit court of inquiry examined a large number of witnesses, three of whom produced some very important facts.

The severest arraignment of Col. Coit and Sheriff Cook has been the verdict of Coroner Edwards of Fayette county. Dr. C. M. Wilson, of Washington Courthouse, testified that he had a conversation with Coroner Edwards a half hour before the firing by the troops occurred, in which the coroner said he had overheard a group of men planning to take Prisoner Dolby from the jail and lynch him. He gave the details of the arrangements.

In his verdict, Coroner Edwards held that there was not the slightest danger of violence to the prisoner. Dr. Wilson also brought out the fact that Coroner Edwards is a relative of Mrs. Boyd, the victim of Rapist Dolby, and also that Theodore Ammerman, one of those killed by the troops, was a nephew of the coroner.

Dr. L. T. Guerin, regimental surgeon, testified that soon after arriving at Washington Courthouse, he was introduced to a man who represented himself to be in business there, and who called him aside and told him he was very much afraid some of the soldiers would get hurt. He advised him that a desperate lot of fellows were coming in from the country to hang Dolby that night, and that they would do it, he did not doubt. Dr. Guerin said he at once carried this information to Col. Coit.

Rev. Norman Jones said he was in the courthouse yard at the time of the shooting. He saw no policeman there, nor was the mayor there. He saw no one trying to dissuade the mob from its apparent purpose but Hon. Mills Gardner, and what he said seemed to have no effect on the crowd. The mob finally threatened to hang Gardner if he did not keep his mouth shut. He did not recognize any of the mob, but a few were men, not boys, as some had claimed.

J. M. Hidy, an attorney, who was on the scene, put the number of people in the crowd at 2,000. Three-fourths of them at least, wanted to hang Dolby. They only seemed to lack a leader. J. M. McKelvey testified to finding thirty-five sticks of dynamite in a box concealed on a vacant lot near the courthouse, the day after the rioting. Just after the shooting he heard a member of the mob say that they had the dynamite, if they only had some one who knew how to use it. He had told the mayor of the find, but he did not seem to regard it as significant. He had not been able to find out where it came from.

Allan Hagler testified that he had gone to the mayor of the town early in the evening of the rioting and urged him to issue a proclamation. He was not able to get the mayor interested in the matter.

The hearing will be resumed to-day.

HIS RULING IS FINAL.

The Courts Will Not Go Behind the Finding of the Postmaster General.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The post office department has recently procured rulings in the United States court to the effect that the rulings of the postmaster general that a party is running a lottery or fraudulent scheme through the mails is conclusive on the judiciary, and that the courts in an application for a mandamus or manditory injunction cannot go behind such finding to compel postmasters to transmit through the mails literature concerning a scheme which the postmaster general has found is a lottery or fraud.

The courts are thus far unanimous in this position. Judge Monroe, at St. Paul; Judge Phillips, at Jefferson City, Mo.; Judge Lodge, at Cincinnati, and Judge Newman, at Atlanta, have so ruled. This is deemed by the postal authorities as very important in the administration of the postal system.

Especially Incidentally.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Col. Lawler, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, visited the various departments yesterday, accompanied by two officials of his staff. His object was, he said, to see some of his old friends, and incidentally to put in a good word for the G. A. R. men in office.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

—Springfield, Mo., suffered from a $50,000 fire yesterday morning.

—A dispatch from St. Johns, N. F., says the overdue Allen line steamer Corean arrived there yesterday.
